About the Performer

Born and raised in Tennessee, Heather Peel has been playing the organ since she was 14. She began her studies with Judy Glass in 2008, and continued on with her to complete a BS in music with emphasis in organ from Southern Adventist University in Collegedale, Tennessee in May of 2016. Heather is currently in her third and final semester at ASU studying with Kimberly Marshall, and will graduate with a MM in organ performance next month. She plans to pursue a DMA in organ performance in the near future, and would like study in Europe for a time as well. Her ultimate goal is to teach organ (and perhaps music theory) at the university level.
